What is the Community House?

The Community Houses (CoC), as indicated in Ministerial Decree 77 of 23 May 2022, constitute the new organizational model of reference for the provision of health and social-health services at the territorial level. They represent an evolution of the previous forms of territorial assistance and base their activity on the principles of greater involvement of the social partners concerned and greater proximity to the needs of the user, with particular reference to conditions of fragility and chronicity. Their primary objective is to strengthen social and health integration and improve patient care through the decisive contribution of technological innovation (e.g. telemedicine) and new organizational forms including, for example, the implementation of Territorial Functional Aggregations (AFT) and the involvement of Family and Community Nurses (IFeC).

The CoCs, in their practical application, aim to concretely provide proximity assistance for the respective reference populations through the logic and processes of health initiative with particular attention to the prevention of hospitalization and the offer of health and social-health services intended for clinical conditions that can be managed at the territorial level, with particular reference to the management of chronicity and simple and complex social-health needs.

The objective of the CoC is to act as a point of reference and orientation for citizens with health needs or varied socio-health needs.

The offer of the various services takes place through the Hub & Spoke model, the Hub CoC concentrates the core of territorial assistance with the provision of all the services provided, while the CoC identified as Spoke are purely aimed at the provision of primary care services

The Hub Community House in Formia is open every day from Monday to Sunday 24 hours a day

The Community House is an open and accessible place for citizens, designed to listen to the needs of the territory and promote the well-being of the entire community

Services offered by the Community House are classified into the following macro-areas:

- Administrative services
- Health Care Services
- Social and socio-health services

The Community House of Formia is a CdC HUB capable of accommodating and satisfying various more or less complex health needs, thus representing an initial access point for the resident population with variable health needs (not belonging to the emergency or highly complex regime) ranging from primary health care, to specialized health care, from administrative services, to social, socio-health needs.

The path provides that the user accesses the facility, freely or by appointment depending on the specific health need, and is welcomed by the staff present who will provide the necessary information to inform users according to specific needs.

Depending on the needs, 3 interconnected macro-areas can be identified to which the user can be directed as in the diagram below:
